La Incaparina es un suplemento alimenticio desarrollado en Guatemala en 1,959 por el bioquímico guatemalteco Ricardo Bressani en el Instituto de Nutrición de Centroamérica y Panamá (INCAP). Su objetivo era combatir la desnutrición en la región mediante una mezcla de harina de maíz y harina de soya enriquecida con vitaminas y minerales. Este producto se ha convertido en un elemento esencial en la dieta de muchas familias guatemaltecas y centroamericanas. FUENTE: ES.WIKIPEDIA.ORG

Pollo Campero una empresa creada en 1971 en Guatemala, con la idea de ofrecer un pollo frito único, con una receta que combinara especias y sabores tradicionales latinoamericanos. El éxito fue inmediato, y pronto se expande a El Salvador, donde también se convirtió en un fenómeno. A lo largo de las décadas, Pollo Campero creció dentro de América Latina y llegó a Estados Unidos en el año 2,002, dirigido principalmente a la comunidad hispana que añoraba los sabores de su país.
